CONGRESS YESTERDAY.

THE APPROPRIATION BILLS BEFORE THE SENATE.

Pensions for the Widows of General Shields and Fletcher Webster---House Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—SENATE.—Senator Beck offered an amendment in the nature of a substitute for the legislative, and judicial appropriation bill. The substitute does not change the amount appropriated but is intended to improve the form of the bill. Ordered to be printed and referred to the Committee on Appropriations. Senator Wallace, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported without amendment the House bill making appropriations for certain judicial expenses, and said he would endeavor to call it up for action to-day. Placed on the calendar. The bill continuing General Shields' pension of $100 per month to his widow and children was taken up. An amendment was made by Senator Dawes granting $50 per month to Mrs. Fletcher Webster. Adopted. Senator Logan supported the bill and warmly eulogized his late friend, General Shields. A resolution offered by Senator Bayard was adopted ordering to be printed for the use of the Committee on Military Affairs the papers and proceedings in the original Fitz John Porter case. Senator Blaine called up the McDonald bill and proceeded to reply to Senator Hill's speech of yesterday.

He read the resolution which Senator Hill tried to have substituted for the secession ordinance in the Georgia Convention of 1861, and said the effect of the amendments which it proposed to make to the Constitution would have been to extend slavery over every foot of territory in the United States. It also pledged Georgia to co-operate with the seceded States and to hold the forts and other Federal property within her limits, until the Atlanta Convention should decide whether she should secede or not. This, Senator Blaine said, showed that Georgia was already in rebellion. With reference to the retaliatory war measure framed by Senator Hill, he said that it was so worded as to assume that every Federal soldier coming on Southern soil, came to incite insurrection, and to punish him therefor. It was, he said, a measure foolishly offered and wisely withdrawn. Senator Hill replied that Senator Blaine had said nothing to which any sensible man need reply. A true statement of facts had not satisfied him, and he would make no other answer. On motion of Senator Lamar the House bill for the appointment of a Commission for the improvement of the Mississippi river was taken up, but without acting thereon the Senate went into Executive session and afterward adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. Stephens, of Georgia, gave notice that during the day he would report from the Committee on Coinage the bill in relation to the trade dollar and would ask action upon it. Mr. Murch of Maine, from Committee on Public Buildings, reported a resolution for the investigation of the mode of construction, etc., of all public buildings of the Government, with power to sit during recess at Washington and other cities. Under a point of order made by Mr. Garfield the resolution was referred to Committee of the Whole

A bill has been reported from Committee on Civil Service Reform prohibiting officers of claimants against or contractors under the United States from contributing money for political purposes, but owing to expiration of the morning hour the bill went over without action.

The House then took up the bill providing for delivering to Samuel Lord, Jr., receiver, of four $1,000 South Carolina bonds, now in the Treasury, which were captured during the war while hypothecated by the Bank of South Carolina with the British consulates at Savannah. Referred to the Committee of the Whole. The Senate bill relating to Jurors in the United States courts was then considered. Mr. Herbert, of Alabama, by instruction of the Judiciary Committee, moved an amendment providing that in selection of names of grand and petit jurors, the clerk and commissioners shall not have regard to political affiliation, race, color, nor previous condition of servitude but solely to the qualifications prescribed by law. Mr. Conger, of Michigan, desired to move reference of the bill to the Judiciary Committee, but was prevented by a call for the previous question. The Republicans then refrained from voting, and after an hour spent in a fruitless call of the House, adjourned.

The Spofford-Kellogg Case.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The Committee on Privileges and Elections resumed the Spofford-Kellogg investigation. Mr. Merrick said he had no further use for DeLacy, as he had him arrested for perjury. He (Merrick) had asked the District Attorney the privilege of assisting in the prosecution should he be indicted. Mr. Hoar, alluding to the criminal charge, said it was an extraordinary proceeding. The chairman was of the opinion that the committee had nothing to do with the matter, but Mr. Hoar thought it had. Mr. Houston said, "When it comes up here we can argue it," and Mr. Hoar reiterated that they would argue it when it seemed proper. Mr. Merrick said DeLacy was one of his witnesses. Mr. Hoar remarked that the universal rule was that while any cause was pending criminal process was never used as a means of coercion of a witness, and that when such witness was arrested, to decline further prosecution until the cause out of which the offense arose was concluded. The colloquy here closed.

Not a Wholesome Lesson.

Richmond Whig.

It is not a wholesome lesson to the youth of the country that such a career of unblushing knavery as Littlefield led for years after the war is to bear no other outward fruit than wealth and luxury. He and his partners in villainy rioted during the period of reconstruction in ill-gotten gains and wrecked the railroad systems and bankrupted the Treasuries of great States, and yet it seems he and they are to go on unwhipt of human justice, and to stand before their fellow-men as monuments of the profit and pleasure of ill-doing. It may be, indeed, that the Florida judge who has released Littlefield from the demand made for him by the Governor of North Carolina, is technically right; but if so, the law stands sadly in need of amendment. The statutes are very faulty under which adventurers may, with impunity, violate the rights of entire communities and offend the moral sense of the world; and it is a weak and vicious system under which our coming men are to be educated, when the wicked are exhibited to them "flourishing like the green bay tree."

President-Making.

Buffalo Courier.

It would add greatly to the strength and harmony of the Democratic party if its leaders, as well as the rank and file, were to dismiss the question of the next Presidential nomination from their consideration, at least for four or five months to come. That question cannot possibly be settled now or within the time named. Some feeble attempts, made during the last two years to forestall the action of the party, have failed entirely, and if they had any effect at all it was temporarily to injure the organization. Three or four prominent Democrats whose names were connected with the Presidential candidacy, have again and again been pronounced politically dead, and yet each of them may suddenly prove a very lively corpse. It is a decided advantage for a great political organization if it has a choice of conspicuous men for its highest honors—men who in their States or sections enjoy the confidence and attachment of their partisan friends. Any attempt to prematurely dispose of the claims of such men deserves censure, and is, moreover, futile in most cases.

The proper course of the Democracy in the selection of its National standard bearer in 1880 cannot possibly become clear prior to next year. After the fall elections we may survey the political field and form opinions as to the prospects of the party in the several debatable States. Only then will it become practicable to tell what are live and what are dead issues. And not until then can the measure of the personal strength and availability of the various candidates be intelligently taken. The present duty of Democrats everywhere is to put their party in the best possible condition for the momentous struggles of the coming year.

Elephants as Log-Rollers.

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph in British Burmah writes: "The other morning at Rangoon General Grant and party were invited to inspect a teak saw-mill, to see the wonderful intelligence of the elephants that are used to carry and pile the logs. Teak, you know, is a very heavy wood —it is one great source of revenue to Burmah—but to work for his mahout the animal will lift the end of a heavy log by his tusks, placing his trunk on it to keep it steady; then gradually working his way toward the center, finally balances the log and carries it carefully to a pile even higher than himself; or if it is wanted to saw the log, he will push it along beneath the circular saw, his trunk interposed between his foot and the log. They will do almost anything, and from their tremendous strength you can understand what they can accomplish. At a branch mill at Montmain they breed them for this purpose, but it takes twenty years before an elephant can do hard labor.

The Civil Sabbath.

The Methodist ministers of Chicago have adopted a declaration presented by Bishop Merrill in regard to what they style the "civil Sabbath." The declaration disclaims all design of creating any religious establishment contrary to the Constitution, and all expectation of policing men into the performance of moral or religious duties, but urges that the preservation of "the civil Sabbath," substantially as regulated by law, is indispensable to the moral, social, and physical welfare of all classes, "and especially of the industrial populations. The closing resolution denounces the prevalent lethargy in regard to the non-enforcement of the Sunday laws.

What more ecstatic state of enjoyment can be imagined than to swing in the hammock on the cool verandah, and gazing through the perfumed smoke of your cigarette, to drink in, as it were, the graceful evolutions of your mother-in law as she pushes and drags the lawn mower over the ground in a spiteful manner "to shame the head of the family into trimming up things round the house, so's to look like folks."

The Burlington Hawkeye has overheard a poor but earnest Iowa tramp say: "Build low roosts and put out the moon, and I'll never beg for another morsel of food as long as I live."

THE VETO MESSAGES.

REPORT OF THE HOUSE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE.

Is the Opinion of the Majority of the House Entitled to the President's Consideration?

Hon. J. Proctor Knott, of the House Judiciary Committee, submitted to the House on Wednesday the Committee's report upon the Presidential message vetoing House bill No. 1,382 known as the "Military Interference Bill." The document is six or seven thousand words in length, and takes up and examines in detail all the objections made by the President to the bill in question. It begins by stating that the danger to be apprehended from the presence of troops at the polls is sufficiently apparent and has been repeatedly pointed out. As long ago as 1863 Congress found it necessary to pass a bill to obviate it by strictly prohibiting military interference with elections except upon call of a State or to keep peace at polls. That bill was approved by President Lincoln and is now in force as sections 2,002 and 4,628 revised statutes. The words "keep peace at the polls" were not in the organized draft of the bill, but were added in the Senate against the remonstrance of the majority of its supporters, who feared they would be misconstrued and used as a pretext to evade with impunity the penalties prescribed. To remove that pretext and prevent a recurrence of the practices already shown to be dangerous, the present Congress in making appropriations for support of the army struck out the words in question. The President thereupon returned the bill without signature because in his opinion, first, it was unnecessary; second it would prevent civil officers from using civil force to keep peace at the polls, and third, the method of repealing the clause in question was not in harmony with Executive taste. The first two objections the Committee, for the present passes without remark. With regard to the third the report says the manner of repeal was in strict conformity to the Constitution and rules of the House, and justified by numerous precedents in the annals of Federal legislation. The latest of these precedents was contained in the army appropriation bill for the present fiscal year which the President signed without objection, notwithstanding the provision contained therein prohibiting the use of the army as a posse comitatus, "It might not be improper, therefore, for the President to devote some attention to the consistency of his own record if not to the ordinary proprieties hitherto observed by the chief magistrate in communicating with the supreme legislature of the country."

The report then recites the preparation and passage of a separate measure of the same nature with a view to obviate the President's objections to the method of repeal, and says it, too, was returned without approval. It then takes up and examines, in course, the President's reasons for vetoing the measure in question. With regard to the first of them, that the bill is unnecessary, the report says: "Whether the opinion of the majority of the representatives of the people is entitled to any consideration at the hands of the Chief Executive is, of course, a matter to be determined by himself; but it is impossible to read the two veto messages together without being struck by their marked difference in tone as regards this objection. The inevitable conclusion to be drawn from the first message was that all authority to use the army at the polls, even in aid of the civil officers was tacitly, if not expressly abjured. In the second message, however, there is no such disclaimer. It is admitted that elections ought to be free from military interference, but there is no intimation that such interference would be unlawful. On the contrary, the inference from the second message is, that under certain circumstances it would be eminently proper. The entire argument against the necessity of the bill is, therefore, left to rest upon the President's assertion that troops have not been and will not be used to interfere with elections during his administration. But his term of office will soon end and his opinions may change. Subjects of a despot must depend for security upon the grace of their master; but a free people will insist upon guarantees of positive law."

The second objection of the President to the measure under consideration is that it would abrogate at certain times and places a number of existing laws, especially section 5298, revised statutes, which, he says, was sanctioned by Washington; Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln, and contains the principles acted upon by the four Presidents more endeared than all others to the American people. With regard to this objection, the reports says, if the President had examined the facts connected with the transactions to which he alludes, he would have found that neither of the four illustrious patriots referred to either did or proposed to do anything which would not have been lawful under the strictest letter of the bill which he now vetoes. In proof of this assertion the report recites the circumstances of the "whisky rebellion" of 1793; the conspiracy of Aaron Burr; the nullification movement of 1832 in South Carolina, and the outbreak of the late civil war. It adds: "A sufficient answer, however, to this objection is that it is untrue. The various statutes to which he refers, including section 5298, are as completely abrogated by the act approved by President Lincoln, February 27, 1865, as they possibly could have been by this bill had the President signed it. A mere glance at the two measures will place this proposition beyond doubt in any candid mind. It is a matter of regret, therefore, that the President should have assumed a position so utterly without foundation. It should be borne in mind, however, that sections 2,002 and 6,528 neither confer the power or impose the duty upon any officer of the United States to keep peace at the polls. Congress has no constitutional power to confer such authority or impose such duty; both the power and the duty belong exclusively to the several States, as was distinctly held by the Supreme Court in the comparatively recent case of the United States vs. Cruikshank et al., 2 Otto., 551. The same principle was also enunciated by the same court in 1842 in the case of Pennsylvania vs. Prigg; 16 Peters, 625. Nor can it be said that the mere power to execute legal process carries with it authority to preserve peace. If a marshal should be forcibly resisted in the execution of the process in his hands, the persons resisting would, as held in the case of the United States vs. Cruikshank, before cited, be guilty of two distinct offences, one against the United States in resisting its process, and one against the State in violating its peace and authorities. The United States would have no more jurisdiction of the latter offence than the State authorities would of the former. That this was once the opinion of the present Secretary of State is shown by the following extract from his letter of instructions to the marshal of Florida, written by him August 20, 1860, while Attorney General under a former administration. "The special duty and authority in execution of the process issued to you must not be confounded with the duty and authority of suppressing disorders and preserving peace, which under our government belongs to the civil authorities of the States and not to the civil authorities of the United States." It may be repeated, therefore, says the report, that sections 2,002 and 5,528 revised statutes do not authorize officers of the United States to keep the peace at polls, and they cannot be rationally construed to confer any authority or impose any duty.

The final objection of the President to the bill is that it discriminates in favor of State and against National authority, by making it lawful, under some circumstances, to use the army to prevent violence in the conduct of State elections and unlawful to do so in the conduct of National elections. Upon this point the report says: "The common sense of the country understands that all elections in a State, whether for members of Congress or local officers, are by the same electors; and those electors derive their right to vote, as was decided by the Supreme Court in the case of Miner vs. Huppenseit, 21 Wall, 170, from the State and not from the United States. It is, therefore, as much the power and duty of the State government to maintain peace and order at elections for Congressmen as at elections for State officers."

In conclusion the report sums up with the reiterated statement that the Federal Government has not and cannot derive from Congress any right to preserve peace in a State, either at the polls or elsewhere, unless called upon by the proper State authorities, and that it is difficult to see how a distinct reservation to the President of power to suppress insurrection against a State when properly called on can be said to derogate from the authority of the United States. The report closes with the request of the committee to be discharged from further consideration of the subject.

Butler has Lost Faith.

General Butler in a recent address alluded to the late Hon. Caleb Cushing's fear on the eve of the rebellion that "the man on horseback might arise," and declared that "it is quite certain that this belief was not prophetic, and that such will not be the secondary effect of our great war." This is interpreted by "Templeton," of the Harford Courant, to mean that Butler has lost faith in Grant's star, and that he contemplates the abandonment of the ex-President.

African Water Fowls.

Richmond State.

Two imported geese presented by George Stronach, Esq., of Raleigh, N. C., to Postmaster Forbes to be deposited in the Capitol grounds, arrived here to-day. They were placed in the basin of the southwest fountain, and at 2 o'clock to-day were swimming about and diving after the gold fish. They will no doubt stay there until some citizen partial to goose pie confiscates them. However, they are rare birds in this locality.

Confederate Gray.

[By request of J. B. Turner, Aurora, N. C.]

You are like your master, worn and old,
And scarred with wounds, my suit of grey;
I'll smooth you free of crease and fold
And lay you tenderly away.

But ere I hide you from my sight—
Forgetting all that's lost and gone—
Let me recall the visions bright
I saw when first I drew you on.

I saw a nation spring to breath,
I saw a people proud and grand
Do battle to the very death
For freedom and their native land.

I saw a cause pure of all harm,
Thrice noble and without stain—
I gave for it my good right arm
I'd gladly give it one again!

I saw across a stormy sky
The bow of glorious promise gleam,
And as its splendors blazed on high,
Fade like the fancies of a dream.

Then shadows such as might be felt,
Came down upon our happy land,
And yet we know our woe was dealt
In wisdom by a Father's hand.

Gray clothes, you fill my heart with tears,
Though to my eyes they may not spring;
Recalling our four glorious years,
And all the memories they bring.

Our cause is lost—our hopes are fled,
The land we love sits sore bereft,
Lamenting for the mighty dead—
You are the only vestige left.

For all we hoped and planned and thought,
For all we suffered and achieved,
In our Confederate Gray was wrought—
Well may it be with laurels wreathed!

Old suit, once more you will be worn,
When I am in my coffin laid;
Upon the resurrection morn
I wish to stand in you arrayed;

When, with hosannas loud and sweet;
Beatified with bliss intense,
Our Southern soldiery shall meet;
Confederate in the highest sense.

Grey suit, I look on you with pride:—
Such pride as manly hearts may take
As with our cause identified,
And doubly precious for his sake,

My martyred General. For he wore
Such clothes about the kingliest soul
That God, from His eternal store,
Enshrined within a human mould.

I know he wears the garments now
That moth and rust can ne'er assail
A diadem upon his brow,
To which our brightest crowns look pale.

I know that in him angels trace
Such glory as on Moses shone,
Reflected from his Master's face,
As close he stands beside the throne.

Yet still I love, by memory's ray,
To see him as he used to be,
Clad in his well worn suit of grey,
The synonym of victory.

The greatest victory he wrought,
Was when at Heaven's supreme behest,
The faith well kept, the good fight fought,
He went triumphant to his rest,

Across death's river—dark and fleet
And storming in tumultuous strife,
Forever left earth's noontide heat
And rested by the tree of life.

There's little left to live for now
Old suit, for such as you and I,
And, but to Heaven's decree I bow,
I'd gladly, like my General,—die.

But long as God may choose to give
The simplest duty as my task,
I'm willing in his strength to live
And try to do it. All I ask

So, when my pilgrimage is made
And I am numbered with the dead,
To join in h. aven the old Brigade
With Stonewall Jackson at its head.

FANNY DOWNING.

THREE-CARD MONTE.

OPERATING ON UNSOPHISTICATED RAILROAD TRAVELERS.

Reminiscences of the Great Three-Card Monte Sharp," "Canada Bill,"---Harvest $100,000.

Philadelphia Times.

Three-card monte is a swindling game at which it is impossible to beat the operator, and it has been so thoroughly exposed that there ought not to be any victims. Nevertheless the monte spider, seeking human flies of present wealth, dexterously handling his cards and skillfully talking the while, makes his living about as easily as he did in the days of the war, when money was so plenty. An old railroad conductor, now a passenger agent for the Chesapeake and Ohio Road, but who ran a train on the Baltimore and Ohio Road during the war, relates that he knew to gather in $8,000 on one train from Martinsburg to Baltimore, a distance of one hundred miles. "Canada Bill" is a name well known to the gambling fraternity, although he who was known by that title was some years ago laid to rest. His death, which cut off from the earth the smartest operator of three cards that ever was seen, took place when he was a trifle more than forty years of age. "Just as well to die now," said he, when told that medicine could not save him. "Might as well cut the game, because the cream of the monte has been skimmed. There won't be another war, and they ain't going to build no more Pacific Railroads, and it's hard for me to play for ten when I used to catch a hundred twice as easy." When his last minute came he sat up in his bed and called out: "Fifty dollars to ten you can't pick up the ace," and then fell back dead. The visiting angel had turned the last card for "Canada Bill."

"CANADA BILL"

SOME OF BILL'S EXPERIENCES.

That is the story told of his last moments, and may be true if the old saying has no exception that the ruling passion is strong in death. Bill's great boast was that he had beaten a minister. Chicago newspaper reporters of the year 1874 remember of the excitement the city editors of the papers there, except one, were thrown into by the exclusive publication by that one of the story of a well-known Methodist minister who became a victim to "Canada Bill's" wiles on a train on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad. He had lost nearly a thousand dollars. Canada Bill did not bear the reputation of having been the most skillful operator. In the slang of his profession, "he could not ring in suckers better than anybody," and here is a sample of his proceedings that came under the observation of the writer a few years ago: The Illinois State Fair, held at Decatur, was just over, and homeward bound. Bill, wearing cowhide boots and coarse clothes, got into the train just moving from the station and attracted attention by saying in a loud tone, "Well, no farmer has a show with railroads. They kill his stock and laugh at him when he wants pay for it." "What's up?" asked his clever capper, and Bill related: "I brought three head of Durham calves down here from Winnebago county and got premiums on all of them. I was having them put on the cars to send home"—by this time the attention of every granger in the car was attracted —'when the consarned fools lets one of them break a leg on the bridge from the cattle pen to the stock car, and they had to kill it to put it out of misery. I wouldn't have taken $200 for the calf, but the railroad tells me I was shipping at reduced rates and ain't got any claim."

THE GRANGERS WERE FILLING THE TRAINS,

HOW HE GATHERED THEM IN.

The conversation that ensued and the statement that Bill had made put him on the best possible terms and in the confidence of all the Grangers, and so when he presently spread his overcoat and said first, "I'll sue the road, anyhow," and then, "I found this little game that'll be funny for the Winnebago folks, anyway," he had no lack of listeners and interested watchers, and after that is accomplished the work of the three-card monte man is easy. Human nature, rich with avarice, does the rest. Bill drew out his cards and proceeded to tell how he had won $530, after losing $60, "just as easy," he went on, "as this. Now, here's the money," and he pulled out a pig-skin pocket-book, tied up with twine, which he undid and exposed a pile of notes to the amount of several hundred dollars. "No discount on that; easier made than turning a long furrow." His capper asked for explanation and Bill told him all there was in it and lost forthwith $20 to his accomplice. By this time were out and bets came in freely. In half an hour the train reached Tolono, where passengers change for Chicago, and Bill, about $200 ahead, got up, remarking: "Well, gentlemen, I'm going to Chicago to see a lawyer about recovering for that calf. Good night." And before the astonished Grangers could realize the situation he had disappeared through the door. Half an hour afterward he was seen on the north-bound train, dressed in the heighth of fashion and looking like anything but the coarsely-clad man on the Wabash road.

HALF A DOZEN POCKET-BOOKS

It is said that Canada Bill made $100,000 during his career as a card thrower, but when he died, in Council Bluffs, Iowa, he left just enough of money to give him a decent funeral. Like many of his profession, he found at the faro table his greatest pleasure, and his winnings went from him more easily than they came. He was a great player of draughts, and won much money that way. Of his early life not much is known. He was born and lived for some years at Peekskill, N. Y., on the Hudson river, just below Poughkeepsie. He was often arrested, but never stayed long in prison. After the war his field of operations was mostly on the Pacific Railroads, west of Omaha.

"But you know, pa," said the farmer's daughter, when he spoke to her about the addresses of his neighbor's son, "you know pa, that ma wants me to marry a man of culture." "So do I, my dear, so do I; and there's no better culture in the country than agriculture."—Hartford Courant.

Attacking the Lunatic Asylum.

The medical profession of New York city are greatly exercised because of the recent action of one of their number in assailing the management of the Lunatic Asylums throughout the State generally. It would seem to have had its origin in a quarrel which led to a lawsuit against Dr. John P. Gray, Superintendent of the State Asylum at Utica, who published in the American Journal of Insanity Dr. Grissom's paper recently read at Washington, in which Dr. Hammond was rather vigorously shown up, and Dr. Hammond lost his temper and indulged in language expressive of his injured feelings quite contrary to the spirit of the medical code of ethics. A lawsuit followed. Dr. Gray is arrested and sued for libel, but the case hangs fire, and then Dr. Hammond determined upon a raid against the lunatic asylums and their superintendents.

OLD PROPHECIES.

Mother Shipton and her Prophecy--Thomas the Rhymer.

Concerning "Mother Shipton's prophecy,' beginning

Carriages without horses shall go,
and ending
England shall at last admit a Jew,
The world to end shall come
In eighteen hundred and eighty-one—

"Texan" writes to the World from Lexington, Lee County, Tex., to ask who was the author and when was it published. This prophecy is an old friend of ours. It appeared in the edition of Mother Shipton's prophecies issued by Mr. Charles Hindley, of Brighton, in 1862, a book purporting to be an exact reprint of a chap-book version issued in 1641, but really as old as 1448. It did not take long to expose the fraud. The earliest edition to be found in the British Museum proved to be of 1641, and neither that nor any of the later ones contained a line of any importance, being a vague jumble of local predictions, and not long after Mr. Hindley confessed that he had fabricated the "prophecy" of which our correspondent speaks, and ten others, so as to make his book sell. Nevertheless the prediction (which agrees with the Great Gallery of the Pyramid, interpreted by Piazzi Smyth and "Philo Israel," in declaring that the world shall come to an end in 1881) is very tenacious of life, and in company with Cotton Mather's bogus "rumme and sugar" letter goes the grand rounds of the papers with singular frequency. "Mother Shipton" as a prophet is very much without honor in her own country. She had predicted that when the dragon of Bow Church and the grasshopper of the Royal Exchange should meet London streets would be deluged with blood. But in 1820 these two famous weathercocks did meet in the yard of a stonemason on Old street—more by token a young Irishman rode down from the spire-point of the church on the great copper-gilt dragon—without any resulting catastrophe. And only a month ago crowds of Mid-Somersetshire folk assembled to witness the the fulfillment or failure of another of the prophecies, which had declared that at noon of Friday, in 1879, Ham Hill, a prominent point near Yeovil, should be destroyed by an earthquake and Yeovil swallowed up by a flood. Many people left the locality, and more of those who remained removed their dishes, clocks and window-sashes so as to avoid by the shock. It is needless to remark that Ham Hill still stands where it stood and Yeovil was not drowned out, and the people of Zummerzet have less faith than they used to have in the mystic Mother's words. An older and a better prophet, Thomas the Rhymer, has, however, been proved "True Thomas" indeed during the past few months.

Tyde, tyde, what may betyde,
Haig shall be Haig of Bemersyde,

he had declared something over six centuries ago, if the legend does not lie, of the family whose tall, narrow, castellated tower stands on a rocky bluff of the beautiful Tweed, a few miles below Melrose. Once upon a time the popular faith in the prophet was sorely shaken when Zerubabel Haig, the twenty-first laird, had presented to him by his wife twelve girls in succession, but then James Anthony Haig was born to save Thomas the Rhymer's reputation and inherit the property. His grandson, the twenty-fourth laird, Mr. James Haig, died in 1854, leaving three daughters, the last of whom, Miss Sophia, died on the 8th of November last at Rome. But this did not did not end the line. For the seventeenth laird, James, who succeeded to the estate about 1602, had married Elizabeth McDougall, of Stodrig, and had by her large family. He was "a bad egg"—or Haig—and getting into trouble fled to Germany, where he died, and his widow married again, to the disgust of her seven sons (there were eight of them, but the fifth died young,) who left Bemersyde and went to the Continent, six seeking service under the Prince Palatine, whose wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Jame VI., their mother had nursed, and one sailing from Holland for the East Indies. He was never heard of, and his brothers were entered in the family genealogy as "supposed to have been lost in the Bohemian wars of 1630." George, the third son, however, it appears, returned to Scotland and settling in Clackmannanshire begot a family now represented by Captain Arthur Balfour Haig, R. E., equerry to the Duke of Edinburgh. Him the three daughters of James Haig above mentioned, by mutual will executed some twelve years ago, made their heir, the estates never having been entailed, and so Haig still is Haig of Bemersyde.

History of the Black Pearl.

Another instance of the singular vicissitudes through which famous and costly jewels often pass is reported from Vienna. A few months ago, according to a late Berlin newspaper report, a Jew named Isaac Roth visited a jeweler at Pesth and asked him to appraise a small black jewel carefully wrapped in a piece of dirty newspaper. "That," said the jeweler, "is one of the greatest of rarities—nothing less than a perfect black pearl; where did you buy it?" "A man left it with me in pawn; what is it worth?" "There is but one dealer in the empire who could afford to buy such a thing—Biedermann, the Court jeweler at Vienna." To him went Isaac Roth, and the jeweler not believing that so poor a man could have come by the unique treasure honestly handed him over to the police on suspicion. Roth said he was a pawnbroker at Grosswardein and had heard tumult in the house of a neighbor named Gyuri, whose effects were being sold by the tax-gatherer. On going into ascertain what was the matter Gyuri had given him the pearl as security for a loan of 20 florins wherewith to pay the collector. Investigation showed that the story was true, and Gyuri declared that Count Louis Batthyany, the Hungarian hero, whose servant he had been, gave it to him just before his execution as a reward for long and faithful service. Becoming indigent Gyuri took the gold setting of the pearl to a jeweler and sold it, but retained the pearl as a souvenir, thinking it of no value. The English Government heard of the discovery, and identifying the pearl as one of three stolen from the crown jewels a century and a half ago, purchased it at the price of 20,000 florins. How it came into the possession of Count Batthyany cannot, of course, be ascertained, but probably he picked it up as a curiosity and was as ignorant of its value as the dealer from whom he obtained it. Such is the story which, if true, will make the recovered jewel rank in point of interest with the blue diamond of France or the twelve Mazarin diamonds stolen during the revolution of 1830 and never heard of again till the betrothal of Alfonso and Mercedes, two years ago, when an Amsterdam dealer came forward to sell them as the agent for a person whose name he would not divulge.

A HEAD SAWED OFF.

THE DOCTORS DISSECT THE MURDERER'S REMAINS.

Some Astonishing Things Which the Post-Mortem Revealed---A Fracture in the Skull Found.

Philadelphia Record, 11th.

Parr, the murderer, ended his miserable existence on this earth yesterday morning, and, as the good Deacon Thomas W. Price observed: "They say there is no hell, but there should be one for such beasts as that fellow." The doctors busied themselves in the endeavor to save the man up to six o'clock, and shortly after that hour his spirit fled. At half past two o'clock he was given a cup of milk and a shock with the galvanic battery. In about twenty minutes the physicians perceived a motion of animation, as though consciousness was about to return. Parr slowly raised his arm, and in a feeble voice, exclaimed: "Oh, my! oh, my!" This was followed by a sigh, as if expressing that he had experienced great relief. The wretch then relapsed into a stupor, and did not awaken again in this world. The cause of his death was prostration and the shock.

WHAT WAS PUT INTO HIM.

During the fourteen hours the medical men had Parr under their care enough of various remedies and drugs were forced into him to supply a small apothecary shop. Five hypodermic injections of morphia were given him; nearly forty grains of sulphurate of zinc were forced down his throat; about two quarts whisky, four or five ounces of turpentine, nearly one hundred grains of carbonate of ammonia, a couple of pints of milk and two raw eggs. These articles were not all given at once, of course, but are massed to show the quantity.

THE DOCTORS CUT HIM UP.

The medical men had an opportunity yesterday to carve Parr and learn something of his anatomy. Dr. Chapman, the Coronor's physician, conducted the post-mortem examination, which was held at the Morgue. The dead body lay on a slab in the dissecting room. There was a slight discoloration about the throat, the ankles and the feet. The abdomen was swollen somewhat.

"Now, this is no prize fight or a bull fight, and I want no levity," remarked Dr. Chapman, in anything but an agreeable mood. "Everybody must stand back against the wall except the doctors, who will come here on the platform."

The spectators, who comprised politicians, lawyers and reporters, became very obedient, and took positions with uncovered heads, while the doctor rolled up his sleeves, whipped out a knife and began to take Parr's scalp. He worked with a deftness and skillfulness astonishing to the non-medical fraternity. When he raised up the scalp, though, it was noticed that some of out into the yard to see whether it would rain or not, and others pulled vigorously on their cigars. Everybody began to accuse every one else of not having courage to stand the sight. It was not the most pleasant one could wish for, yet the discussions which arose concerning the skull and the heart made it decidedly interesting to the doctors and the lawyers.

After the scalp had been laid over the face, Dr. Chapman declared there was a depression of the skull on the left side, back of the ear. Then he felt on the right side and discovered one there, but not exactly of the same sort. Then Dr. Packard declared that the depression on the left side was the result of an injury.

WAS PARR RESPONSIBLE?

It will be remembered, during the trial, Dr. Chapman testified that Parr's skull had never been fractured, while Dr. Packard, as the expert for the defence, persisted that the unusual depression on the left side was the result of a fracture, and that it irritated the brain and caused the outbursts of violence. When the marks were found on the outside, and discussed, the doctors asked that the top of the skull be taken off. Dr. Chapman sawed and pounded, and in a few seconds Parr had the top of his head in the physicians' hands.

"There! there! I told you so; there's the fracture," exclaimed Dr. Packard, as he pointed to an osseous formation on the inside of the skull, at the bottom of the depression. "There has been a fracture, and it has entirely healed."

Then all the doctors put the skull in the center and examined it carefully. Dr. Chapman persisted that it was not a fracture, and was very decided in his opinion.

THE DOCTORS DISAGREE.

After they had gazed upon it intently, Coroner Gilbert, Professor Andrews and Doctors Smith and Packard were united on the idea that there had been a fracture.

While engaged in conversation, aside from the others, two of the medical men present came to the conclusion that a man with that fractured skull and pressure upon the brain could be held responsible for murder in the second degree, but no higher grade of crime.

The doctors, also, say that if they could learn as to Parr's temperament in early life, they would doubtless find that before his skull was fractured he was of a mild disposition, while since then he has been in very passionate and violent moods.

Parr's skull was very thick, nearly three-eighths of an inch. This was the subject of great surprise among the medical men. It was stated by ex-Constable Cunningham, who was present, that he had seen Parr beaten with a blackjack for five minutes by a policeman, and then he was not subdued.

The brain was lifted out, and on examination was found to be healthy, except the congestion which had been the result of the convulsions on Monday.

COMICALITIES.

"So it seems, arter all," said Mr. Addlebrane, laying down his Bible, "that the hoss is the oldest of all the critters on the face of the airth. Afore even the sun and moon and all thar consternations was lit up, it tells of the shay hoss. Crackey! and who'd a thought they had waggins that there airly and a shay at that! Well, it beats all!"—Boston Transcript.

The editor of the Burlington Hawkeye says he will celebrate his Fourth of July in Canada. It is a foolish idea. The lemonade of Canada is bad and the peanuts execrable; while the firecrackers and the orations are beneath contempt. We do not wish to destroy our unhappy neighbors, but they have never celebrated our independence worth a cent.—Buffalo Express.

A contemporary recording the recent medical conventions held in Atlanta, Ga., said doctors were so numerous the little children put their tongues out whenever a black coat was seen coming down the street.

JOHN R. HUSSEY, - - Editor.

SECTIONAL FEELING.

Day after day the New York Tribune pours out its vials of wrath on the offending South, doing its utmost to work discord between the sections. Not a crime occurs in a Southern State but it is perverted into an "outrage" and ascribed to political causes. "The North is magnanimous," it says, "and stretches out its hand in conciliation and friendship, but the rebellious South will not accept it without reservations." These reservations, we take it, are that the people will not accept the Tribune's political teachings as law and gospel, and surrender all manhood and liberty to the rule of a second-rate metropolitan editor.

Fortunately for the South the Tribune's influence is somewhat limited. We believe that the great majority of the people of the North are conscious of none but the most kindly feeling toward us, and regret the feeling of enmity which the Southern people are supposed to harbor toward them, a feeling that the Tribune and other journals of its ilk are most sedulously endeavoring to foster. It is also undeniably true that our Southern people feel that the only bar to the complete pacification of the country is the supposed hostility of the North toward them, and they naturally believe it as the Tribune's statements are cited in support.

It is quite true that many influential Republicans favor the idea of harmonizing supposed existing differences, and but a few days since the Springfield (Mass.) Republican published a proposition to invite some prominent Southern statesman to deliver the oration at the Fourth of July celebration to be held in that city on the coming anniversary of the nation's birthday. The proposition seems to meet with much favor, and among the names prominently mentioned is that of Senator Vance. Even one enthusiastic paper proposed Mr. Jefferson Davis, and when taken to task for it replied, "That even Northern people could gain "wisdom from listening to the scholarly old gentlemen." The spirit displayed is as it should be. It is believed by the persons who are moving in this matter that great good will be accomplished in this way, by bringing the representative men of the South in contact with Northern people, and thus promoting mutual respect and good will.

But now comes the "doubting Thomas" of the Tribune, and says:

We may as well bear in mind the fact, however, that the political differences between the Republican party and the Democracy with their Solid South are not sentimental; they are practical and they are radical. These gentlemen who come up from the Solid South to give expression to their affectionate regard for the Union and their desire for thorough reconciliation and lasting peace, are not looking for Republicans, but for their old associates and allies in the party which sympathized with them before and during the war. That is their natural affiliation. They are quite willing to say there is no danger of another rebellion; that they accept the results of the war to the extent that they do not propose ever to renew it; but they have never accepted the results of the war in the sense of admitting the supremacy of the Nation and the subordination of the States. With their first opportunity upon reaching partial power they renew the old issue.

But the Boston Herald makes a spirited reply and says:

Governor Colquitt, of Georgia, recently spoke in Atlanta after a visit to the North. He declared as a new and interesting fact to his hearers that the Northern people want peace and harmony, national reconciliation and a complete peace of the sections! Now we know that we want these things, but how many there are among us who believe that the Southern people want nothing of the kind. And this idea is taught and reiterated by our politicians and party organs. But the people of the South do want peace as much as we do, and they, on their side, are misrepresented by their loudest spokesmen, whose voices we are sure to hear.

As soon as the people of the two sections thoroughly understand each other—as soon as they cease placing belief in unreliable political sheets, the sole motive of whose publishers is to make money at the expense of veracity,—as soon as they rely more on their heart impulses of fraternal feeling—then will the era of peace and good feeling be established, and not before.

A LAW SUIT of unusual interest is on the tapis in Massachusetts. The Legislature of that State, at its last session, enacted a law making the owners of property liable for any damage caused by the sale of liquor on their premises. A case has just arisen in the city of Lynn which will serve to test the constitutionality of this civil-damage act, as it is entitled. There is a rumor that the liquor dealers have combined for the purpose of employing General Butler to represent them in the courts; in any case, a sharp legal fight is assured. But the effect of the law is not confined to the limits indicated by the impending suit. It is kicking up merry mischief in political circles. Prohibitionists denounce it as a swindle, passed by a Republican Legislature to make party capital, and the Republicans are themselves divided on the advisability of the measure. The sentiment is gaining ground that Governor Talbot has seriously injured his prospects for renomination by signing the bill.

THE Vicksburg Herald publishes information in regard to the organization of militia companies in the interior of Mississippi to act as a check to "the lawless organization called 'bulldozers'," in order "that witnesses and others shall be protected." All bulldozers are warned "to desist from their lawless acts and deeds of violence, or retributive justice will be visited upon them." This has the right sound. If the exodus business has gone to hasten such action among the law-abiding citizens of Mississippi, the movement has not been without good fruit. Sooner or later, however, reaction was sure to come. It has been retarded by the efforts at the North on the part of such demagogues as Senator Blaine to make political capital out of a continuance of sectional strife and bickering.

THE decision of the Republicans to support all the new appropriation bills makes it almost certain that the final adjournment of Congress will take place on the 17th, as now suggested, or possibly on Monday next. This action of the minority renders it reasonably certain that the bills will be signed by the President. Some of the Democrats are said to be annoyed because of the change of front of the Republicans, but the great mass of people will be glad to know that factious opposition has ceased, and that there will so soon be quiet on the Potomac. The prospect of an early adjournment is as refreshing as a June shower.

IT has been from time to time asserted that intimidation at the polls has been by no means confined to the South; that even in Massachusetts men could not always vote in accordance with their convictions without detriment to their personal interests. The truth of this is proved by affidavits now on file in Boston showing that for voting for General Butler last fall eight men were discharged from the post office, one from the Navy Yard and many others from the employ of individuals. The fact is that as a rule employees of large corporations are expected to avoid running counter to the wishes of their employers, and those who fail to take the hint must make room for those who are not so obtuse.

THE British Government has been getting rid rapidly of its women telegraph clerks. For two years no women have been engaged as clerks in the telegraph department, and the government has closed the woman's branch of its telegraph school. It is also stated in the London News that the work of the women clerks who remain is made increasingly severe. No publicity has attended the changes made by the government in the clerkships, and they are now brought to notice by communications to the press. It would be of public interest to know why the discharges have been made, and what are the faults of the women which disqualify them for telegraphic service.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The country has heard of a class of statesmen who "rise above party." It doesn't hurt them to go up, and they come down easily enough. But the concussion of alighting is often fatal. Mr. Hawley claims that there are a number of Democrats who are prepared, not to rise above, but to sink below their party into the bosom of Radical organization. Diligent search fails to reveal any of these gentlemen. Evidently somebody has been fooling Mr. Hawley. The Democratic front is as even, as straight and as solid as a battalion on parade, "dressed" on the colors. They are "all present and accounted for." Not one has straggled toward General Hawley's line.—Washington Post.

The Beaufort Crescent errs. What we said was that "The News and Courier "will not under any possible circumstances, recall a single word it has said concerning Mr. Tilden, and in opposition to his nomination." Our fight will be made before the nomination, not after it.—Charleston News and Courier.

The Kingston Freeman editorially expatiates on the "Usefulness of Woods for Shelter," and this has given rise to a rumor that the Freeman is edited by a gentleman named Wheeler, alleged to be Vice-President of the United States. —New York Star.

The words are the words of the prophet Ezekiel: "So I prophesied as I was commanded, and as I prophesied there was a noise, and behold a shaking"—which is what happened the Ohio Republicans when they heard that Sam Cary had called a convention of Greenbackers to meet at Toledo next week.

Certain intensely Radical sheets are using the more atrocious portions of General Schuyler Hamilton's Decoration Day speech to fire the Northern heart. The words of a man who has no heart himself are poor stuff with which to attempt to fire the hearts of others. —N. Y. Star.

The next charge brought against the Democratic party by the Radicals will be that they are putting two many Federal brigadiers into public office. Ewing and Rice were both gallant soldiers in the Union army.

Ewing is not only the brother-in-law of Tecumseh Sherman, but also a near relative of Blaine. This will not prevent John Sherman from using the influence of the Treasury for Foster, but the Senator from Maine will take no part in the contest.

Your Blasted Ignorance.

Central Georgia Weekly.

No law that Congress can pass will ever make eighty-five cents in silver worth one dollar in gbld.—Exchange.

There you go again with your blasted ignorance. Congress has done just what you say it cannot do. A silver dollar of 412½ grains can be exchanged for a gold dollar; will purchase as much in the market as a gold dollar, and in every use which it can be put to as money, is the equal of it. Not only that, but a paper dollar, which has only about the thousandth part of the intrinsic value of a silver or gold dollar, will, as money, purchase as much as either. Gold, silver and paper as merchandise—as a merchantable commodity, like wheat, corn or iron, is worth just what it will bring in the market, and the price is governed by the demand; but as money the fiat on the greenback, with no intrinsic value, is the equal of gold or silver, as money. Commercial transactions are daily made amounting to millions all done by paper—gold having nothing to do with it, not even based on it. This cry of the money sharks for a gold standard is simply to be able to control the legal tender money of the world, and knowing its scarcity, can demand their pound of flesh whenever they choose. We have a few financial theorists in the South, we are sorry to say, who are ready to play into their hands.

No Distinction Shown.

New Haven Union.

Judge Pardee doesn't like a noisy court room, and devotes considerable time to finding fault with the bustle in the court room. He makes the room such an interesting place to visit that attendance is much larger than it was formerly, and the larger the attendance, the noise made by those present is, very naturally, much larger. Judge Pardee interrupted a trial this morning to make the following remarks; "There's a dozen talking in this room. Mr. Officer, see that this noise is stopped. Not that I object to whispering, but not one man in fifty thinks of whispering in this room. All talk, and it is the duty of the officer to approach anybody he hears talking and tell him to keep still, and, if the man refuses to keep still, to put him out of the room. It doesn't make any difference who the man is. I don't care if they are lawyers or editors, I won't have the business of this court interfered with by their gabble. I've had occasion to speak several times about this matter, and by and by I shall fine somebody without much warning."

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general costive, sometimes alternative with looseness. The head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

These pills are never sugar coated. Every box has a red wax seal on the top, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS on the wrappers. Most assuredly bearing the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

SKIN DISEASE.

A Remarkable Letter from J. A. Tucker, Esq., Manufacturer of the Bay State Superphosphate.

MESSRS WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen—I think I have paid for medicines and medical treatment during the last twenty years all of three thousand dollars, without receiving any permanent relief.

Last May while taking a Turkish bath at 17 Beacon street, a young man employed there by the name of Wm. Corbett induced me to allow him to apply a preparation that he had upon me, assuring me that it was perfectly harmless, and for a certain consideration he would cure me within thirty days from the time he commenced. In case he failed to do so I was to pay him nothing. I consented and he applied it nearly every day for five weeks, when the disease entirely disappeared. I very cheerfully paid him the amount agreed upon, and then asked him what this remedy was, and he replied that it was no other than CUTICURA.

Since that time I have had no trouble from this disease, and have not had such good health in twenty years as I have had during the last six months.

I have since my recovery bought Cuticura and given it to friends suffering with skin diseases, and in every instance it has cured them. I believe it to be the greatest discovery of the present century.

Skin and Scalp Diseases should be treated externally with Cuticura, assisted by the Cuticura Soap, and Resolvent taken internally, until cured and for some time afterward. Where the Humors are confined to the Blood and do not show themselves on the surface, the Resolvent alone will speedily drive them from the system. The Cuticura Remedies infallibly cure the most loathsome cases of Scrofulous and Skin and Scalp Humors, as is attested by hundreds of unsolicited testimonials in our possession.

Rev Dr. Mangum, Prof. Univ. of N. C. I concur with Bishop Doggett in his estimate of the Vest Pocket Cure.

Rev. Drs. Jeter, Broaddus, Dickinson, (Bap.) It is endorsed by the direct personal testimony of men of national fame and strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as a specific. The word of any one of the eminent divines who have underwrite this antidote to dyspepsia has deserved weight. Their united witness join'd with the experimental use and approval of the preparation by well known physicians, removes all doubt. It is beyond question, a wonderful therapeutical agent.—Editors religious Herald, Va.

Chaplain Randolph Macon College, Va. Many cases of Dyspepsia within my knowledge have been cured by it. Cramps, Colics, Headaches and all sorts of pains from indigestion yield promptly to it. The cures of this sort are innumerable.

Rev. R. L. Dabney, L. L. Col., Va. It is highly esteemed here by the regular Medical Faculty and the people. It is excellent for indigestion and flatulent Colic, sedative, soporific, tonic, slightly apeent, without nausea.

Rev B. F. Woodward, P. E., Na. Cont. About twelve years I suffered from Dyspepsia. Failing in with this remedy, I gave it a fair trial. After its use I could eat anything with immunity. I am sure I am indebted to this medicine for what of health and physical comfort I have had for the last sixteen years. I have known many since to be relieved by its use.

Rev Robert W. Watts, A. M., Va. I have used the mixture in my family for years, and have taken it for a Dyspepsia Colic, which threatened my life, and was cured, eating any diet without hurt. I have recommended it to other sufferers with happiest results. It is the best tonic and corrective I ever knew. For protection from Dyspepsia or Liver Disease it is invaluable

J. D. Eggleston, M. D., Va. It is a highly valuable remedy, and is more extensively used than any single article in the whole list of medicines, so far as I observed in my practice, for all the complaints in families from indigestion. I use it and recommend it.

Editor Richmond Christian Advocate. This remedy is of great virtue. I have seen Dyspepsia cured completely by it. It seems to be an antidote to our "Nation's Disease." The ingredients are not kept by the apothecaries, and have been difficult to get.

Talbott's Patent Spark Arrester,

THE INVENTION OF THE AGE.

Talbott's new Patent Spark Arrester is really the only perfect and reliable one, and is superseding all others in use. The great efficiency of this Arrester is attracting universal attention, and is being endorsed by the best mechanical engineers and insurance companies. Its prominent features are:

It does not destroy the draft.

It does not interfere with cleaning the tubes.

It will not choke up, and requires no cleaning.

It requires no direct dampers to be opened when raising steam (dampers being objectionable, as they may be left open and allow sparks to escape.)

It requires no water to extinguish sparks, which, by condensation, destroys the draft. Besides, when water is used, if neglected, the efficiency is destroyed by evaporation of the water, and the boiler is kept in a filthy condition.

It is simple and durable, and can be relied upon.

It can be attached to any boiler.

No planter should be without one of them. Insurance companies will insure gins and barns where the Talbott Engines and Spark Arresters are used at same rate as charged for water or horse-power.

By Hon. A. W. Tourgee.

We are happy to announce to the legal profession that this valuable work is now ready for delivery to subscribers. The labor of preparation and the necessity of securing the utmost possible accuracy in the immense number of citations, has necessarily delayed the work, but the result cannot but be satisfactory to every practioner. In form, matter, completeness and style of publication, it is undoubtedly the best law book ever published in the State containing 750 large double-column pages, 5,162 cited cases and about 30,000 citations.

It will be mailed to subscribers on receipt of the price $12 with 25 cents for postage. Or sent by Express C. O. D. when there is an office convenient. Persons desiring to have the work should order at once, as the edition is a limited one.

Oatmeal for Dyspepsia.

In the last five years the consumption of Oatmeal in this country has probably increased twenty-fold. People differ so much in their likes and dislikes that we do not insist on anybody eating oatmeal because somebody else does, but the great growth of its popularity as an anti-dyspeptic is beyond doubt. Generally the Irish and Scotch Meals are considered best, but they sell comparatively high, and persons who have used both say that the Canadian and American Meals are just as good; these latter retail for 6½c. per lb, against 15c. for former.

Oatmeal should be well cooked. As it is usually made it may be soaked over night, and then boiled like mush for, say half an hour. No doubt it is most wholesome eaten plain, but the temptation to use various dressings—generally sugar or cream—is too strong for any but very firm seekers, but where these are taken it should be as the Friends say, in "moderation."

A BREAKFAST DISH,

Terrible—Awful.

TRUE.—"The man that will take a newspaper for a length of time, and then send it back 'refused,' and unpaid for, would swallow a blind dog's dinner, and then stone the dog for being blind."

"He would do worse than that. He would marry a girl on trial, and send her back with the words 'don't suit' chalked on her back, after the honeymoon."

Worse than that. He would steal the chalk to write it with, and afterward he would use it on his shirts, to save the expense of washing, and then sue his wife's father for a month's boarding.—Standard.

Worse yet. He'd chase a sick rat ten miles over a corduroy road, and institute a post-mortem examination after he had caught him, in order to recover a stolen grain of corn.—Morgantown Star.

He would steal rotten acorns from a blind pig. He would steal all the winter meat of an editor.—Somerset Herald.

He would sponge a living from the hard earnings of his poor old father until the old gentleman was unable to work, and then let him die in the poor house, and afterward sell his remains to the medical students for anatomical purposes.—Bluffton Banner.

He would dig up the bones of his mother and make dice of them, and play "chuck-a-luck" on his grandmother's tombstone for a copper cent which a horse thief had stolen from the eye of a dead fifteenth amendment.—Quitman Banner.

A puppy's eyes open in nine days. We have waited that time in the vain endeavor to add something else to this man's character, but to use the expression of a Georgia Judge, "the English language is insolvent."—Americus Recorder.

Still worse. No man in America would trust him with the anchor of the "Great Eastern" and that too in the middle of the desert of Sahara. He would stick pins in a blind and crippled orphan baby two weeks old.—Atlanta Despatch.

Still "wusser." He would set a poor widow's barn afire and run away by the light of it, and while she was screaming at him he would catch her breath in a bag and sell it to a dentist for nitrous oxide.

Whether the Democrats enter the contest of 1880 with a fighting chance for success, or with disaster already organized against them, depends on whether bourbonism or conservatism rule. Thus far the latter has excited little influence in the party councils.—Memphis Avalanche.

Sherman grasps the situation fully, and with "national supremacy in national matters, honest money and an honest dollar" for a platform, and with his splendid financial record back of him he certainly appears to be the man most likely to secure the Republican nomination. Of his election there could be no reasonable doubt.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

LIVER

This important organ weighs but about three pounds, and all the blood in a living person about three gallons passes through it at least once every half hour, to have the bile and other impurities strained or filtered from it. Bile is the natural purgative of the bowels, and if the Liver becomes torpid it is not separated from the blood, but carried through the veins to all parts of the system, and in trying to escape through the pores of the skin, causes it to turn yellow or a dirty brown color. The stomach becomes diseased, and Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Jaundice, Chills, Malarial Fevers, Piles, Sick and Sour Stomach, and general debility follow. MERRELL'S HEPATINE, the great vegetable discovery for torpid Liver, causes the Liver to throw off from one to two ounces of bile each time the blood passes through it, as long as there is an excess of bile, and the effect of even a few doses upon yellow complexion or a brown dirty looking skin, will astonish all who try it—they being the first symptoms to disappear. The cure of all bilious diseases and Liver complaint is made certain by taking HEPATINE in accordance with directions. Headache is generally cured in twenty minutes, and no disease that arises from the Liver can exist if a fair trial is given.

—Librettos of "Pinafore" can be obtained at Williams' bookstore.

—The Salem band will play in the Capitol square this morning at 9 o'clock.

—Did you ever?—Well, go to Tucker Hall to-night and see how it's done.

—Buttercups are not yet out of season. You will find one at Pinafore to-night.

—The picnickers at Rand's pond yesterday afternoon got caught in the rain.

—The meeting of the Y. K. of T. has been postponed till next Friday night.

—The public may expect an unusually fine entertainment at Tucker Hall to-night.

—Messrs. Robert Jenkins & Son, Baltimore, Md., took out a drummer's license yesterday.

—The State Treasurer has at last received the new bonds in the denomination of $1,000.

—Concert and exhibition of the Colored Graded School at Metropolitan Hall this evening.

—The last will and testament of Justus Parrish was propounded and admitted to probate yesterday.

—A small matter between Dolph Sater and a colored man at the normal school by the name of Davis for assault occupied the attention of Justice Barbee for an hour or more yesterday. Dolph paid $2 and cost and that's the way it ends.

—The public documents, laws and journals for the members of the Legislature from Wake, and the laws for the magistrates of the county are at the office of the register of deeds. These parties will please call for their books. The register has none for any persons else.

—The impertinence of the small boy at the school concerts in this city was actually refreshing, it made the cold perspiration stand out on the brow of those most interested. It is disgraceful for boys to congregate at these places and smoke cigars and be boisterous in a great many disagreeable ways.

Personals.

Mr. H. E. Mills, of Buffalo, New York, Hon. William B. Rodman, of Washington, Colonel John D. Cameron, and Rev. C. Dunham, of Durham, Mr. W. C. Page, of Page's Hotel, Sanford, Mr. V. O. Mills, of Baltimore, P. W. Franklin, Esq., of New York, are at the National Hotel.

Mr. Leo. D. Heartt and family have returned from their visit to Mrs. Heartt's friends in New Berne.

Supreme Court.

Court met at 10 o'clock on Wednesday all the Justices present.

T. J. Southall and wife vs. W. H. Shields, Administrator, from Northampton; argued by Gilliam & Gartingand D. A. Barnes for the plaintiff. and T. N. Hill and J. B. Batchelor for for defendants. Pending the argument in this case the court adjourned until to-day at 10 o'clock.

Attention!

Those who have reason to prefer complaints about the streets or the nonlighting of lamps, or other things that pertain to the street commissioner's department, will find a slate on the wall of the Mayor's office where they can put their charges in writing. This should be done prior to 10 a. m., in order that the commissioner may be able to attend to the grievance the same day.

The First Catch of the Season.

Mr. C. D. Osborn, one of the proprietors of the Ocean View Hotel, and Capt. George M. Ives, owner of the fast sailing and popular sharpie "Lucia," caught twenty fine blue fish at Beaufort, Wednesday afternoon, in less than one hour, trolling. Capt. Ives informs us that the fishing for blue fish and Spanish mackerel will be better for the next three weeks than at any time before September.

Mayor's Court.

His Honor Mayor Manly resumed his chair in the temple of justice yesterday morning, but there were none present to feel the majesty of the law. Warrants were issued for Robert Williams (colored), charged with obtaining goods on false pretences, and another person for being drunk and disorderly Sunday. One gentleman was in the guard-house this modesty not allowing him to appear in public, and he was left there to sleep it off.

Supreme Court.

Court adjourned until to-day at 10 o'clock.

A Misdemeanor.

The 15th section of the Machinery Act passed at the last session of our Legislature makes it a misdemeanor to fail to list taxes, either property or poll. At the present rate of listing in Raleigh township and city, there will be a pretty large number of names sent up for "misdemeanor," unless those who have thus far failed to list shall avail themselves of the few remaining days in which the assessors have to work and go forward promptly and give in their lists. Act promptly, reader, and go at once; don't neglect it any longer.

The closing exercises of this school will not take place as was previously announced. Messrs. Fray & Morson have postponed the same until Monday night. The school will be opened this morning at 9½ o'clock when the scholars will go through their final course of declamation, all except a few who will speak during the exercises at the Deaf and Dumb Institute on Monday night. Mr. E. R. Stamps will make an address on the occasion, and altogether a very interesting time may be expected.

The Agricultural Society.

The Executive Committee of the North Carolina Agricultural Society met at the Yarborough House last night, A. Creech, Esq., in the chair, and C. B. Denson secretary.

General discussion ensued upon the details of the programme of trials of speed, and Messrs. James McKee, G. W. Blacknall, John D. Whitford, P. E. Hines and the secretary were appointed a committee to prepare the list in full.

The secretary reported the premium list as in press, to be issued as soon as the printers can complete it. He also reported the receipt of handsome donations from Miss E. M. Coe, 70 Bible House, New York, of Kindergarten material, to be presented as premiums for the first, second and third exhibits in merit of Kindergarten work by any school in North Carolina.

The Committee on Grounds reported progress in the arrangements for the erection of a building for the display of field products by the Agricultural Department.

The meeting was largely attended, and the prospects are promising.

Complaint of the Market-Men.

Last Friday evening at the Common Council meeting Alderman Ricks offered a resolution to the effect that the time for purchasing should commence at 7 o'clock in the morning instead of 8. The Alderman was directed to make his amendment in writing for presentation to the Board this evening. A reporter of the NEWS has canvassed the question, and the prevailing opinion of the citizens appears to be that the hour should not be changed.

On the other hand the stall-keepers say that if the present rule is adhered to they will not be able to pay their rent; that the country hucksters have sold the pick of the truck leaving them nothing but the poorest portion for which there is little demand. They further say there should be a discrimination made in regard to rental of the stalls—those on the north side not being as valuable as those on the south.

As these questions will come before the Board to-night those interested would do well to be on hand.

List Your Land.

Many persons owning land in townships other than the one in which they reside have been in the habit of listing it before the Register of Deeds. That officer cannot oblige persons in this way the present year, for the reason that the assessors have to place a new valuation on all land. He will, however, furnish blank abstracts, which persons referred to can fill, swear to and mail to the assessors, as follows:

Barton's Creek, R. D. Honeycutt, Hutchinson's Store.
Buckhorn, G. B. Alford, Holly Springs; J. P. Goodwin, assistant.

Music.

O Sullivan and Gilbert!
You've much to answer for;
We've no desire to kill, but
We'd like to "take the law"
On you for daring to concoct
"H. M. S. Pinafore."

For through our mighty country,
Where quiet reigned before,
Now shrieks the festive fiddle,
Now sounds the trombone's roar,
While everybody shouts and sings
"H. M. S. Pinafore."

Our managers have got the craze
Their cry is still for "more;"
Such fights for "singing chambermaids"
Were never seen before—
On nearly every stage is heard
"H. M. S. Pinafore."

Ere long as Captain Corcoran
Will John McCullough roar,
While Janauschecka as Hebe
Will warble from the score,
And Jefferson as Deadeye
Catch many a loud encore,
And "bless their stars" that they "put on"
"H. M. S. Pinafore."

An Unfailing Evidence of Good Taste.

The judicious use of some delicate perfume is an unfailing evidence of good taste. The most polished of all lands class sweet scents among their most important luxuries. Dr. Price's Meadow Flowers, Pet Rose, etc., are the gems of all odors.

Would an Irredeemable Currency be as good as gold? While there is a very large class of intelligent citizens who believe it would, we regard it our duty to all alike to say that as a cure for old sores, cuts, bruises, jams and slashes, there is nothing like Carbolic Salve. Beware of counterfeits.

Unheard of Bargains!

Who tries his best to please his friends
And in his labors never ends,
Bargains he'll give you when you call
For No. 10 is all and all.
Of other houses you hear them talk;
In Fayetteville street just take a walk
And only ask for No. 10,
Kept by the most ingenious of men,
And when his friends by chance drop in
Then forth he comes, Lord what a grin,
And to their wondering eyes displays
Such heaps of brackets and window shades.
His pictures are exposed to public view
And a variety of cord to suspend them too,
His looking glasses and toilet cases
Will help adorn your forms and faces;
Picture frames and mouldings too
In great variety, black, brown and blue.
His window cornices and lambrequins fine,
Will make your rooms and parlor shine.
Perforated mottoes, and white holly baskets.
And every other sort of stuff,
Of which he hopes to have enough.
So now he bids you all adieu
And wishes a happy new year too,
And not forget

War and Gold—A hotel war based on gold prices. In order to accommodate both classes of travelers, the Grand Central Hotel, on Broadway, New York, is now kept upon both plans, the American at $2.50 to $3.00, and the European at $1.00, and upward, per day. An elegant Restaurant, at moderate prices, is conducted by the Hotel.

No hotels in the world can equal the leading ones in the United States. To this flattering reputation the "St. Nicholas" of New York has largely contributed by its palatial elegance and superior skill of cuisine. The proprietor is known far and wide for his knowledge and experience of the public taste. Result, a house which unites the proudest traditions of the past with the most fastidious attention to the demands of the present.

Well Understood.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is regarded as one of the most successful and creditable products, and it is, if the opinions of chemists, physicians and all classes of consumers are worthy of acceptance, the purest and Best Baking Powder ever placed in the market.

BOVINE, MISSISSIPPI, April 22, 1879. —The following correspondence will explain itself: A. WADDILL, ESQ., LYNCHBURG, VA.—Dear Sir: Observing a certificate from you in reference to the "Iron and Alum Mass," of the Seven Springs, in Washington county, Va., in relation to its efficacy for Liver Diseases, would you have the kindness to inform me whether you used the "Mass" or the "Water;" also, a description of the symptoms and such other information as you may deem pertinent. I am a long-time sufferer with Liver Complaint, and naturally feel very anxious on the subject of a remedy that will afford me even temporary relief. Your early reply will greatly oblige, very respectfully,

WILLIAM BARR.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 12, 1879.—WM. BARR, Esq., Bovine, Mississippi—Dear Sir: Your inquiry in regard to the "Liver case" which was effectually cured in my family from using the "Seven Springs Mass," is before me. The case referred to in my certificate was that of my wife's sister, who is now in her 80th year, and has been a member of my family for the last 27 years. She had been afflicted with Liver Disease for 30 years, sometimes almost dying with pains in the back, breast, and heaviness of the chest, heart-burns (intensely), sick stomach, vomiting, &c. I procured a few bottles of the "Mass" for her, and very soon after she began the use of it, her health commenced to get better, and she continued steadily to improve, and at this writing, so she seemingly is as good health as a person who had never been afflicted with these diseases. She attributes her cure entirely to the efficacy of the "Seven Springs Mass." I regard it one of the greatest family medicines we have access to, not only for such diseases as above indicated, but for various other complaints for which it is recommended. Hoping these answers satisfactory, I am, very truly, A. WADDILL, Proprietor Lynchburg News.

For sale by Wm. Simpson, Pescud, Lee & Co., and F. H. Heartt, Raleigh, N. C., and Druggists generally.
